It is a celebration because it is considered as a month of blessing. It is the holy month of fasting, praying and giving. People is used to the warm temperature that scourges during the Holy Month of Ramadan, despite the warm temperature our Muslim brothers and sisters' s faith is as its peak and very pure when it comes to their practices and beliefs. Muslims usually breaks the fast at sunset called "Iftar", and the other which is taken in the morning is called "Suhoor". Muslims discourages immoral act and encourages discipline towards ourselves and most specially to others. They devoted themselves in prayers and worships to Allah.

Muslims observed Salah times or the times they perform their prayers.

As the saying goes, "there' s a rainbow after always the rain". It similarly implies to the celebration after fasting and it is the Eid Al Ftr. It is the 'festival of breaking the 10th month of the Islamic lunar calendar. This celebration serves as a reward and victorious devotion that they of-fered for good deeds and worships.

One of the important resource a company or organization has are its employees and workers. Safety is one of the responsibility of the employer especially during at work or inside of the company premises. We may cannot avoid accidents nor accidents but in times we can lessen or assist any unexpected worst condition to happen.

In connection with these, Middle East Fuji initiated a First Aid Training with the course, Level 2 International Award in Emergency First Aid at Work (Highfield Awarding Body for Compliance (HABC-UK) last June 20 in MEF Conference Room with the duration of six hours. The training was conducted by Delta Safe Training and Consultancy.

During the training, it covers up with the 3 P's definition of the topic. First aid is the assistance given to any person suffering a sudden illness or injury, with care provided to preserve life, prevent the condition from worsening, and/or promote recovery. (John Morley, Chris Sprenger. First Aid Handbook. 4th Ed. 2016). The training consists of theoretical and practical discussions to the participants which teaches preparedness and responsiveness. Some topics during the training includes: first aider responsibilities, assessing an incident, managing an unresponsive casualty, respiratory system, major and minor injuries. Practical application of first aid also includes first aid application and Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR).
